Epilepsy 20 Years.

Cured by Dr. Miles' Nervine.

A few years ago, Mr. L. W. Gallaher, was an extensive, successful expert manufacturer of lumber products. Attacked with epilepsy, he was obliged to give up his business. The attacks came upon him most infrequently. One time falling from a carriage, at another downwards, and often in the street. Once he fell down a shaft in the mill, his injuries nearly proving fatal. Mr. Gallaher writes from Milwaukee, Feb. 10, '95.

"There are none more miserable than epileptics. For 20 years I suffered with epileptic fits, having as high as five in one night. I tried many of physicians, paying to me alone, a fee of $300.00 and have done little for years but search for something to help me, and have taken all the leading remedies, but received no benefit. A year ago my son, Chas. E. Gallaher, druggist at 101 Reed St., Milwaukee, gave me Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and I tried it with gratifying results. Have had but two fits since I began taking it. I am better now in every way than I have been in 20 years."

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by druggists on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit or free refunded. Book on the Heart and Nerves, free. Address, Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

WAS EMBARRASSING

To Mr. and Mrs. Bryan as Well as to Another Gentleman.

AN INTERESTING INCIDENT

In which the Boy Orator's Wife Showed More Tact than He Did, and all Ended Pleasantly—A Circumstance which Mr. Bryan Ran Up Against in "The Enemy's Country"—A Workingman Asks a Question About Free Silver and Wages that the Bryan Party Couldn't Answer.

During Candidate W. J. Bryan's visit in New York, he and his party were taken on a trip to Coney Island and return to give them a taste of the sea air. While on the boat the young Nebraska orator found himself in the midst of a gold crowd, which, not knowing who he was, gave him some views on free silver.

It was all the fault of W. P. St. John, who had the party in charge, not showing a proper amount of discretion when an embarrassing circumstance arose. They were on the steamer "Farmers," and mixed with the crowd of excursionists on the deck of the vessel. The New York papers, in detailing the account of the trip, related the following entertaining incident, in which Mrs. Bryan figured a great deal more creditably than did one or two male members of the party, who were responsible for placing her and her husband in an embarrassing situation.

Now and then a little black cat that is regarded as an infallible mascot by Captain Hulse, nosed around the Bryan party. Detective Reed said that the cat was certain bad luck and he was pretty sure to hoodoo the free silver champion. He was laughing at this superstition, and didn't feel that he was displaying superstition himself when he said:

"No cat can hoodoo me when I carry this rabbit foot in my pocket." He produced the rabbit's foot to prove that he was amply protected. Everybody laughed and applauded and Mrs. Bryan was laughing at the question or remark. He said that the cat was the "martyr" of the manager, Banker St. John, that did the hoodooing.

Somebody who had a speaking acquaintance with Mr. St. John, asked him in a quiet tone to explain how the free and unlimited currency of silver was going to benefit the business man or the working man. Had Mr. St. John evaded the question or replied in a low tone the unpleasant scene that ensued would probably not have occurred.

But Mr. St. John started out to champion free silver in a loud and emphatic voice that soon brought an audience. Mr. Bryan sat only a yard away with him. He said that the cat was the "martyr" of the manager, Banker St. John, that did the hoodooing.

A young man in dress which indicated that he was a workman sat opposite Mr. St. John by the pilot house of the steamer. He was a Democrat, and he took a part in the controversy. He proved to be Abraham Cohen, a silk weaver from Patterson, N. J.

"Beg pardon, sir," said Mr. Cohen, "but I recognize you from your picture in the papers to be Banker St. John. It is proper for you to champion free silver and Democracy on this excursion boat. I think it is proper for me to say a word."

"By all means," said St. John, and Bryan looked daggers at him. "Well, then," Cohen began, "I want to ask you why it is that under the present Cleveland administration 50,000 workmen out of the 100,000 in Paterson silk mills have been thrown out of employment? If we elect another Democrat on a free trade platform will you explain how the silk industry will be benefited?"

Banker St. John gave this answer: "If you will come to my house I will give you pamphlets to take to Paterson that will explain everything." "That won't do," Cohen persisted. "Can't you tell me now why silk manufactured in Japan, a silver country, can be sold here for less than we can make it? In Japan the weavers get seven cents a day. Explain to me, if you can, how free silver is going to raise our wages?"

"Come and get our pamphlets," was St. John's only answer. "Do these pamphlets tell why the wages of free silver weavers amount to only 42 cents a week?" "They tell everything," said St. John. "The crowd was increasing. Bryan was growing nervous, and it looked squally all around. Another citizen interested in his views in language not complimentary to Mr. Bryan. He proved to be Warren Caffey, of No. 124 East Eighty-sixth street, and said he was a clerk. Mr. Caffey said in very loud and emphatic tones, as he started at St. John:

"I'm going to vote for McKinley, not that I love him particularly, but his principles are correct. I have no use for Mr. Bryan or the cattle who run with him." Bryan hid his face in his newspaper. "One way to decrease poverty and better the times," Caffey proceeded, "is to regulate immigration. We have too many niggers coming here who are willing to work for nothing."

Mr. Caffey was proceeding to further berate Mr. Bryan and "the cattle who run with him," when Mr. Cohen interrupted to say that Mr. and Mrs. Bryan and Mr. St. John were present. Caffey was not aware of that before, and Cohen introduced him all around.

Mrs. Bryan's quick tact. Bryan raised his hat and bowed, but didn't say a word. St. John smiled and bowed, but didn't open his mouth. Mrs. Bryan was the only one who spoke. She rose from her camp stool, walked quickly over to Mr. Caffey and extended her hand, with smiles that were a mixture of pain and cordiality.

"I am very sorry for all this. I would not have expressed my views had I known that yourself or your husband were here," said Caffey, as he shook the lady's extended hand. "That's all right, sir," she said, while she held her hand in hers. "You have a perfect right to express your opinions." "Is my apology accepted?"

"You have nothing to apologize for." "But I feel uncomfortable." "I'm sorry, but you're all right." Mrs. Bryan's course brought applause from the crowd. Caffey made his apologies to Mr. Bryan and Mr. St. John, who received them with silent smiles. "I'm sorry, too," said Cohen, "but if you come to Paterson we'll give you a royal welcome."

Caffey made another attempt to have Mr. Bryan accept his apology. He said he was only speaking his convictions, and that he was a Presbyterian and believed Bryan to be a good man. "I only said what I thought," he concluded. "That's perfectly right," said Mrs. Bryan.

Mr. St. John patted Cohen on the shoulder and gave him his card. He told him to call and he would give him definite and conclusive answers to all silver and tariff questions. Cohen said he would do so, and then, turning to the audience, he remarked in gleeful tones:

"This is a great day for Paterson. Her stock will go up 90 per cent when I tell those silk weavers I have an invitation to call on Banker St. John. It is a great day for the Jews, too, for I am president of the Hebrew Republican club of Paterson."

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan exchanged glances in the cabin and Cohen said to the captain: "I would like you to run a railway on the water, in his election would benefit my trade, but Bryan's election would not do it."

"I knew what that black cat was more powerful than a rabbit's foot," Detective Reed remarked as the crowd melted away.
